when success is imperative

RE-Think, RE- Energize, RE-Educate and RE-Commit

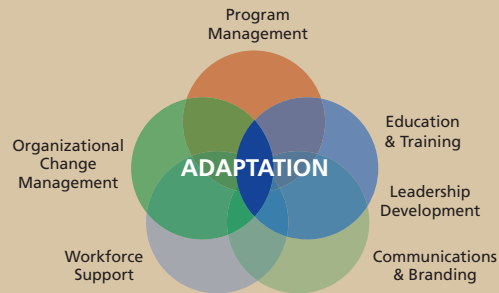

Achieve Success with Enterprise Consulting

RE-Think, RE-Energize, RE-Educate, and RE-Commit

Change is hard work! Remember when we said “Our approach is different”? Here's why—we not only help define the changes with you, our experts will be able to move your workforce to adapt to those changes!

We have developed our Adaptation® propriety methodology to support the change required to make your Improvement Programs successful. Adaptation® has been proven to be successful in anchoring change within global organizations. Not only do we initiate and support change from within an organization, we leave behind a workforce that has a stake in sustaining change for the long-term.

Adaptation® – Where Change Solutions Converge

We know what works—and just as important, what doesn't. For example, we know:

- While support from the top is essential to success, it is insufficient to support successful change.
- While technical expertise is critical to implementation, the deployment ultimately depends on the workforce taking up the banner.
- While outsiders can orchestrate a successful effort, your people must have a personal stake in it to achieve the desired results.
- While there are similarities in large scale deployments, each situation is unique based on the organization's business objectives, structure and culture.

Our experience means your success. And your success is what we're all about.

Who We Are

The Enterprise Consulting Group

Specializes in the design and implementation of solutions that provide a foundation for improvements in leadership and control, operations, business process, organizational effectiveness and performance.

What Does This Mean?

We help you design programs to drive profitability, minimize risk, control costs, leverage automation and initiate successful change throughout your organization. Our approach is unique because we not only help define the changes with you; we are experts in moving your workforce to adapt to those changes quickly.

Why Is this Important?

Speed of change becomes a critical driver to realize value for your investment. The speed of change is directly tied to your workforce's ability to absorb the disruption of change, maneuver through obstacles and successfully adapt to change in the work environment.

Now is the Time to . . .

RE-Think, RE-Energize, RE-Educate, and RE-Commit

How We Help

We ensure the success of your initiatives by managing the convergence of new ideas, technology, workforce participation, learning and communications. From our field experience, we have observed that managing these elements is critical for the success and sustainability of all corporate initiatives.

We evaluate what's already in place to assess your business, understand current risks and identify opportunities for improvement. We measure your organization, operations and performance using industry and functional benchmarks and prepare an actionable portfolio of improvement opportunities.

Our Areas of Expertise

We help create and implement solutions to enhance internal controls, reduce costs, minimize risk and leverage automation.
